TECHPARTNERS INTERNATIONAL CHANGES ITS NAME TO HARVEY NASH

First Harvey Nash U.S. Acquisition Finalizes Name Change

Parsippany, NJ (January 25, 2005) – TechPartners International, the Denver-based arm of Harvey Nash’s IT recruitment and solutions practices, has officially changed its name to Harvey Nash.

In 2000, TechPartners International became the first U.S.-based acquisition for Harvey Nash, one of the world’s leading IT recruitment and executive search firms with operations throughout Europe, Asia and the U.S. Over the last five years, Harvey Nash has grown extensively in the U.S. to include offices in Colorado, Washington, California, New York, New Jersey, Illinois, Florida and Connecticut.

With strongholds in Europe and Asia, Harvey Nash is publicly traded on the London Stock Exchange under the symbol (HVN).

“While TechPartners has been a trusted IT recruitment name in the Denver area for several years, it is important that we communicate to the marketplace our full breadth of solutions as a global IT recruitment firm,” says Chris Beisler, VP and market director for Harvey Nash in Colorado. “The name change reflects our commitment to sharing with businesses across the Front Range the full spectrum of IT solutions Harvey Nash offers, including IT recruitment, managed services and outsourcing.”

Harvey Nash in Denver and across the U.S. also offers businesses executive search and finance and accounting recruitment solutions.

“We are excited for businesses and talented professionals throughout Colorado to get to know the expert range of IT, Executive Search and Finance and Accounting solutions Harvey Nash offers,” says Robert J. Miano, president of Harvey Nash’s U.S. operations. “Leveraging the Harvey Nash name is one of the first steps in sharing our story with the local marketplace.”
